CORSICANA, TEX., June 27, 1890. Hon, Bryan T. Barry, Dallas Tex.

DEAR OLD FRIEND: -As you are the champion of a glorious cause in behalf of Democracy in this state I feel somewhat constrained to ask you a few questions to get my befuddled political mind clear, and I know of no other way to seek information than to make an appeal to you or George Clark, as it now appears that you are the conceited champions of Democracy.
You are aware of the fact here in Navarro, the

You are aware of the fact bere in Navarro, the home of our boyhood days, we have a diversity of Democrats.

We have what is called the "brass collared Democrats," made up of the straight jackets, with a few 'old radical Republicans;" then we have what is called "Anti-Prohibition Democrats," and we have "Prohibition Democrats," and we have "Prohibition Democrats," and by that is meant a man can be an anti-or pro-or an anti-commission or commission Democrat. I have been looking to the great so-called source of Democracy which seems to be concentrated at Dallas, especially at the "Cook headquarters," for relief on this question.

"Cook headquarters," for relief on this question.

I have been watching all of your interviews, for which you seem to be an expert, and I find when you accepted the reins from the plastic hands of "Warwick" that in your first interview you gave the country the news that the commission move and the supporters of Hogg was made up of the union and Knights of Labor, together with the Republicans and Prohibitionists. This declaration I have been waiting to see verified and on careful investigation, that one, Hall W. Greer, was two years since kicked out of the Democratic party, driven out like Cain from the bosom of his friends, and he, the said Hall W. Greer, ran for attorney-general or the court of appeals, I don't recoilect which, on the Union Labor ticket or at least the Independent ticket, and how find him in the hands of the Cook forces, and the only country yet instructed for Cook is where Hal lives.

You see thinking men will say that you were not in your first interview correct; but Bryan. human nature is so weak that the ablest and best men err.

Your next interview was on the test of Democracy, in which you differed with Chairman Finley, and I am glad that you embodied in that interview that you were not speaking officially for the party; that you were only giving your individual ideas.

It is better for one politician to kill himself officially for the party; that you were only giving your individual ideas.

It is better for one politician to kill himself isolitically than to kill his many aspiring friends. Truth of it is, my dear Bryan, if something is not done and done at once, that Jim Hogg and these anarchists are going to carry this "old county" by a solid vote. It is already conceded that to per cent, of the voters of this county favor Hogg. Now he stands a good chance of the other 10 per cent, unless something is done.

You are a man, Bryan, of great political resources, and we all appeal to you for God's sake and for the people of "Old Navarro," that made you what you are, to come to our rescue at once. Don't get interviewed any more, that is not the remedy; we don't need any catharity officine, but rather a sedative.

These interviews and proposed test resources are to our proper of the proposed test resources are the proposed to the remedy, we don't need any catharity officine, but rather a sedative.

Bower's Suicide and Injustice, Editor Gazette.

Referring to the letter found on the person of D. N. Bowers, who suicided a short time ago, permit me to say a few words in behalf of Mr. B. O. Bowers, the brother who was so harshly spoken my knowledge, done many things during the past twelve or fifteen years to assist his unfortunate brother, first by helping him finish his education; next by giging him a position in his office in New ork; afterwards starting him in busi-ness in Galveston, where he made money rapidly, but by reason of his dissipated habits involved his brother to the extent of several thousand dollars and had to close up the business. He then returned to New York, where he was again given a position in his brother's office. Marrving shortly afterwards, his brother assisted him in furnishing his home, and storted him in the retail grocery business in Plainfield, N. J., where he prospered, but again became dissipated and was compelled to close the business, entailing a loss of several thousand dollars to his He next returned to New York, fell into bad company, went from bad to worse, deserted his wife and child, and finally turned up in Fort Worth ince when his character and actions are nown to many people here. Mr. B. O. Bowers is a well-known business man in New York, and has a large acquaintance among the business men of Texas. To those that know him the above statement is superfluous; it is made simply as a matter of justice to a man who has exercised an unusual amount of forbear ance with a wayward and dissolute brother, spending thousands of dollars in trying to make something of him, and finally notwithstanding the last and basest act of ingratitude, purchasing a lot in the cemetery and having his body removed from the potter's field, where it had been buried by the county, and given decent burial.
